

Water Baptism

After Jesus was baptized He was driven into the desert and tempted for 40 days. Then as He came out of the desert, He immediately began His public ministry. Jesus' baptism was not to remove sin, because Jesus had no sin, but as an example for us. Our baptism is not the action itself that removes our sin, but it brings us into a relationship with Jesus through obedience that demonstrates our faith in Him. This baptism further connects us with God through Jesus Christ and with the Holy Spirit. Through Jesus' baptism, He demonstrates His belief in us as His followers and that we are in Him. Baptism is not a magic act but shows how we believe in the future benefits of Christ's death and resurrection to us and every one of us. Our moment of baptism stands out as one specific, pure example of our relationship with Jesus Christ and that we are sure that Jesus Christ is in solidarity with us. This is like a stake in the ground, similar to the mile markers on a highway. We can always look back to this point in our Christian walk and say, this where Christ freed me from my bondage to sin and made me a new creation. It is by our total giving of ourselves to Christ and through that covenant and Christ's promise; Christ's totally giving Himself to us that Christ may remove our sins.<sup>1</sup>
